He was born February 11th, 1950 in Pasadena, California to the late Beulah Mae Nelson and Horace Jackson, Sr. In his early childhood years, he attended Saint Peter Claver; where he served as an altar boy. As an adult, he joined the Glorious Church of God in Christ under the leadership of the late Martha Johnson. He sang in the choir, was a member of the usher board, and an all-around handyman. Patrick entered the United States Army in November of 1969 and was honorably discharged in September of 1972. He was also served in the Army and Navy Reserves. He competed in over 100 regional and local tournaments. He won three divisions in three different weight classes. He also trained more than 700 students. As a free community service, Patrick also organized Tae Kwon Do training for residents in public housing including those that were physically and mentally impaired. Patrick had numerous awards, accolades, and trophies in mixed martial arts.
