I thank God everyday for bringing you in my life 30 years ago. And at that time I never knew how much you would have such an impact on my heart and life! You were the very best friend that I have ever had in my entire life! And the communication that we had most married couples don't even have! We could always agree to disagree without getting mad! You used to always tell me that "time will tell" and I will miss being able to pick up the phone and hear your voice, even if you wanted to tell me how your day was. There was no secrets between the two of us over the years and I am thankful that you were the best man that I could have ever known. We had a bond that would never break, we had a bond that not many people would understand, and we had a bond that lasted a lifetime. I am very blessed and thankful for every moment that we shared every phone call that we had and the honesty that we shared! There will never be another Gary! Fly high my friend with them angels! You will be missed terribly here but never forgotten!
