Aniema Utomobong lit a candle in honor of Charles.

Being the £184 million winner of the national lottery is a great gain. I vowed to help people in need of financial support, Being blessed with £184 million really meant a lot to me and I feel like I don't deserve it as I know the real struggle people go through in a bid to make ends meet. Therefore I voluntarily decided to donate and touch the lives of men and women who have found themselves in financial crisis, to individuals around the world according to how God leads me to do. I try to reach people randomly from different sources and modes so as to touch lives from different parts of the world. Now I'm giving you an opportunity to share your pain with me drop a message for me and I'll reply you. Respectfully: Joe & Jess
