I heard about Darren't tragic accident because I am a professional at Black & Veatch. I am so sorry for your loss. I too lost a loved one earlier this year. Keegan, one of my 27-year old twin sons, was painting an interior wall and fell off a very short ladder, he hit his head and died. Getting that call was devastatingly hard. Please take time to go through this mourning process. Know that others are mourning with you and holding your family up in prayer. -Derin Beechner

Over the past few years our families would send each other care packages. Frankie and Emrys were so happy and excited to receive these beautiful bears gifted all the way from America from Darren and Miranda. This week they have held them close and cuddled them and for these two little ones who don't quite understand what's happened they will forever have Darren with them ❤️💙

Darren a friend and co-worker. Always, and I mean Always wanted to learn more about the world we live in. He found me/my life, most intriguing. Any lunch or dinner we had together would eventually turn into a deep dive session of Q&A. His questions, my answers. He was well schooled on a variety of military topics. He is missed.

I never had the pleasure of meeting Darren but from all the memories I've read he sounded like a good person all around. I've been in this industry for over 25 years and understand what these men and women risk when working on these projects. It does not make any of it any easier. My family and I pass along our condolences to the wife and children that are going through this tragic loss. May you find peace down the road and hold onto the memories he left behind forever.

Darren, You were 5 weeks away from living your dream and finally coming to Australia. You were 5 weeks away from coming to stay with us - your crazy Australian friends who turned into family over the past few years. You were 5 weeks away from finally being able to meet your Aussie mate that had become one of your best friends. You were 5 weeks away from becoming apart of our family for 2 weeks. You were 5 weeks away from Frankie and Emrys jumping on you to wake you up every morning you were here. You were 5 weeks away from turning 29 in Australia and celebrating by climbing the Sydney Harbour Bridge. Instead we are heartbroken that you are never going to get here and so sad that you never got to experience those things. So, I need say something I never got to... Thank you Thank you for being the absolute best friend to Darren. Thank you for always being there to make him smile and laugh and fill his days and nights with crazy antics and crazy stories. Thank you for bringing such joy and happiness to his life and being that friend who he could always count on. You might not have known it but you two were so alike. You just got each other and Darren has never had a friend like that with such a strong bond. You have touched our lives and we will be forever better for having you in our life even if we only got a few short years with you. You will forever be loved and missed. Xxxx

Miranda and Family, Our families were neighbors (and more importantly friends) for so long and we were so grateful to your family for coming to help ours grieve. My heart broke for you in all of your youth to be a widow already. The road ahead is going to long but your parents and brother are so amazing. Lean on them. They are such wonderful people who carry a strength I can't put into words. Our prayers are with you and your family. The Jackson and Chessel Families

I never met Darren but just read about his accident and then visited his photography website. Darren was a talented artist who saw the world in a unique way. The only thing that comes to mind are the words from Don McClean's song 'Vincent'... "this world was never meant for one as beautiful as you"

Darren was one of the first photographers that really helped me get started with my modeling career. Since the day we met he has been the exact definition of a big brother for me. We were colleagues, shared ideas with one another towards the industry and gave each other advice to further our crafts with photography and modeling. I am thankful for the friendship that we had and will cherish those moments where we had to stop in the middle of our shoots because we were laughing at something so hard. Such a great and charismatic person that will be missed. Prayers and love for his family and friends.
