John Mayo lit a candle in honor of Raymond.

I worked with and mostly for Ray for several years, we shared a common love of fishing. Ray was always truthful with me when he was my boss. One one occasion, he made me change jobs and shifts that did not make my very happy, when I asked him why, he said, 'you are the best man for the job', even though it was in a different department and night shift. I liked working for Ray and considered him a good boss and a good friend. He knew his job and did it well.
